Outline US Strategy

Aim At Keeping Cong On the Run

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. aim in pouring more and more fighting men and equipment into South Viet Nam is to raise the tempo of attack to such a level that the Communists will be put on the run and ultimately worn out, says a Pentagon official.

This outline of U.S. strategy is clear from statements made Monday night by one of the top military planners for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

"Our objective is to keep the combat tempo at such a rate that the Viet Cong will be unable to recuperate," said Army

Lt. Gen. B. E. Spivy in a Chicago speech.

"We want to get and keep them on the run," Spivy said. "In guerrilla warfare, once the guerrillas are on the run, they are likely to run downhill toward military ineffectiveness and defeat."

This is the same strategy which was used by the Filipinos, with American advice, against the Communist Hukbs and by the British Commonwealth forces against the Reds in Malaya years ago.

The three-star general, director of plans and policy for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said that "we are doing better, considerably better than a few months ago when the situation was close to critical."

In essence, Spivy said, "We are holding our own and a bit more, but the Communists are not yet on the run."

While voicing confidence that the United States and the South Vietnamese can win this war, Spivy said this outcome will hinge on unflagging efforts "for a considerable time to come." He shied away making any time prediction.

Spivy also refrained from predicting how large the U.S. military build-up in Viet Nam will ultimately become.

Jury Returns Felony Ruling

Odis Martin, 22, Charged In Death of John Snyder

A six-man coroner's jury empaneled to probe the death of John William Snyder, 35, 1400 East Seventh, who died following an assault Saturday night in the 100 block of East Third, concluded late Monday night that a felony had been committed and named Odis Lee Martin, 22-year-old pipeline worker, as the principal.

The jury members held that Snyder, who died about 8:45 a.m. Sunday at Bothwell Hospital, met death "as a result of brain damage caused by a blow to the back of his head and on the right side behind his ear."

"It is our conclusion," the jury's verdict continued, "that the blow to the back of the head was not accidental and not self-inflicted by a person or persons on the scene at the time. We have concluded that a felony was committed at that time. We further conclude that the principal engaged in this felony was Odis Martin and the accessory is Ralph Edwards."

Under Arrest

Martin, in the courtroom with his attorney, William F. Brown, was immediately placed under arrest by Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz and Assistant Prosecutor James T. Buckley prepared a state manslaughter warrant against him.

The manslaughter charge against Martin was filed formally in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning by Assistant Prosecutor Buckley. Martin was released on a $7,500 bail bond posted through the Bradshaw Bonding Company and the bond is returnable to Magistrate Court on Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Besides the Sedalia address, Martin gave Sheriff Fairfax another address of Route 1, Ponderly, Tex. Bail bond for Martin was established at $7,500 by Magistrate Judge Frank Armstrong.

The inquest, originally scheduled for 7 p.m., started some 45 minutes late and continued until 9:35 p.m. with only one five-minute recess before the testimony of nine witnesses was concluded. Jury members returned with a verdict at 10:55.

Serving on the panel were Floyd Stevenson, George Bryant, Edward Brummet, Richard H. Monsees, Arval L. Houchens and Jack Newby with Newby as jury foreman.

City Council In Recess

'Can Do' Motto Is Adopted For New Recreational Area

"Can Do" is the motto adopted for the program to obtain or put in reality the proposed Sedalia - Pettis Recreational Area south of Sedalia. The first meeting to spearhead an active interest in the program was held Monday night in the Assembly Room of the Court House over which Mel Jones, chairman, presided before a full room of interested persons.

The City Council, Monday night, met and recessed until Tuesday night so members of the Council could attend the meeting. Also in attendance were two members of the Pettis County Court, E. L. Birdsong and C. M. Purchase, as well as all members of the Sedalia Public Works Board, which oversees the operation of the Sedalia Water Department.

Two state officials were present to discuss the project, Joseph Jaeger, Jr., executive secretary of the State Inter-Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation, and Edwin G. Glaser, planning officer for the Conservation Commission.

Glaser was first introduced by Jones, and began by stating that on a state level, state officials appreciate the community effort toward this project, it not being proposed by any one individual or group, but a community program.

"Due to present transportation over our fine highways, Sedalia can sit here on a little island or it can compete for industry and people or for the things which make up a better American way of living. At the present date and changing times, there is more leisure time under this American way of life," Glaser told the group.

He pointed out under community growth there is a responsibility to the people of the city, county and state. He also said "When you are talking about outdoor recreation for a community you are thinking big. You are talking about the future, the future of your children and their children in years to come."

Glaser then said Jaeger would (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 7)

Cemeteries Relocation Plans Made

Kaysinger Dam Necessitates Move Of Many Graves

Preparation for relocation of cemeteries to be inundated by the Kaysinger Bluff Reservoir is underway and incorporators to organize a new cemetery association were named recently, the Democrat-Capital has been informed.

Trustees and representatives of next-of-kin of the cemeteries in Benton County to be relocated from the reservoir to a new cemetery to be developed by the government east of the Shawnee Bend Church met Nov. 8 with W. E. Clark, relocations representative for the U.S. Corps of Engineers. The meeting was called to plan the layout of the new cemetery and to take action to organize a new cemetery association which will own and maintain the new relocated cemetery.

Elwyn D. Martin, Andy M. Hord, Eugene Ferguson, Edmond S. Alexander and Edgar Downing were named as incorporators to organize the new association.

Shawnee Cemetery will be the name of the new cemetery and the overseeing group is to be known as the Shawnee Cemetery Association. Frank Brady has been retained as association attorney.

"The new cemetery will be enclosed with a chain link fence 48 inches high with one entrance at the southwest corner from the existing county road and one at the southeast corner from the existing county road and one at the southeast corner from the new access road to the dam," Clark reported. "The interior roads in the cemetery will be rock surfaced 16 feet wide; there will be a perimeter road inside the fence with three north-south roads, dividing the cemetery into four sections. The cemetery will be landscaped, retaining the row of existing cedar trees on the north side of the county road."

Some 1,200 graves are slated to be relocated into the new cemetery and present plans call for the cemetery to be developed in the spring of 1966 and relocation of graves to begin soon (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 8)

New Assaults Thrown Back

896 Cong Die In Battle With US First Cavalry

IA DRANG VALLEY, South Viet Nam (AP)—Men of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division, holding their ground in the biggest battle American troops have fought in Viet Nam, threw back two new assaults today by North Vietnamese regulars from hillside entrenchments above them.

A military spokesman said 869 Communists have now been killed, and confirmed by body count, in the savage struggle of the last three days in the central highlands near the Cambodian frontier. American losses were reported to remain moderate.

Dug in around a helicopter landing zone in the Ia Drang Valley, the troopers were expecting another attack.

The North Vietnamese have the advantage because they hold the high ground — a chain of mountains that stretches into neutralist Cambodia, six miles away. The Communists have been digging in across these mountains for years and know them intimately.

Intelligence officers said there are possibly four or five regiments from the 235th North Vietnamese division in the mountains. They originally had believed the division to be the 304th.

In the air war, two Communist MIG fighters fired on two unarmed U.S. photo-reconnaissance planes over North Viet Nam. The American planes escaped unharmed.

About 500 North Vietnamese resumed the attack on the 1st Cavalry troops in the Ia Drang Valley about 4 a.m. This attack tapered off at dawn, but three hours later about 600 North Vietnamese launched a coordinated attack against two U.S. units.

Seeking Bar On Red China Seat In UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States sought today to make sure Red China is barred from the United Nations for another year by calling on the General Assembly to hold to its stand that admission of Peking requires a two-thirds majority.

The United States and nine other countries introduced the resolution Monday night as the 117-nation assembly wound up its annual debate on the China question.

The American resolution recalled that the assembly ruled in 1961 that the issue was sufficiently important to require a two-thirds majority and requested that the world forum stick to this position.

The move came as a surprise to many diplomats. U.S. representatives had been voicing confidence that they had enough support to defeat Peking by a simple majority. Informed sources, however, said an informal poll of delegates indicated that Peking's supporters could muster a simple majority of seven or eight votes in their favor.

The poll was said to have been taken when Peking's backers were circulating a tentative resolution which called for the seating of Red China but left out the usual demand for expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists.

The supporters of Red China put in their resolution Monday night after toughening it up to include the ouster demand. Peking reportedly informed the sponsors it would not accept any U.N. decision on admission unless it included this clause.

The expulsion call was expected to lose Peking some votes. France, which has come out for Red China since it established relations with the Communist state, reportedly urged the sponsors to keep out any reference to expulsion even if Peking would not accept this.

Cosponsoring the U.S. demand for a two-thirds majority were Australia, Brazil, Colombia, Gabon, Italy, Japan, the Philippines, Madagascar and Thailand.

Emergency Power Voted

To Strip Rhodesia Of Trade Rights

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson was expected to strip Rhodesia of its Commonwealth trading privileges today as his first action under sweeping emergency powers voted by Parliament.

Acting without a formal vote, the House of Commons and the House of Lords early today adopted emergency legislation authorizing Wilson to act by decree against the central African colony's rebellious white minority government.

All decrees take effect as soon as they are issued but expire unless approved by both houses of Parliament within 28 days.

Conservative critics argued that Wilson was getting a blank check for sanctions or any other action without parliamentary control. But they bowed to their party leadership's insistence that the government should not be opposed and that Britain should take a united stand against the Rhodesian government unilateral declaration of independence last Thursday.

The new law gives the British government power to annul any legislation passed by the current Rhodesian Parliament, including the independence constitution proclaimed by Prime Minister Ian Smith.

It declares that Rhodesia remains a part of Her Majesty's dominions, and that the government and Parliament of the United Kingdom hold responsibility and jurisdiction for the territory.

Sears is being held in the Cooper County jail without bond.

Jury Trial For Sears Underway Today

A jury trial for a California, Mo., man charged here with rape opened this morning in Cooper County Circuit Court at Boonville.

John W. Sears, 21, is charged with the rape of a rural Sedalia woman north of town early in February. The case was transferred to Cooper County on a change of venue requested by the defense.

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax told the Democrat-Capital at 1 p.m. today that a jury had been empaneled and Judge Frank W. Hayes heard opening remarks from attorneys before the noon recess. The first witness in the case was to be called when the jury returned from lunch.

The state's case is being presented by Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz and a Sedalia attorney, Fred Wesner, is assisting. Charles Shaw, a Clayton lawyer, represents Sears.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Does anyone REALLY want an honest opinion? I am beginning to think they do not.

My brother-in-law who lost his wife two years ago asked me for my opinion of the woman he has been dating. I told him I thought she was a loud, vulgar, money-hungry shrew and that if he marries her she will wring him out like a pair of cotton socks, toss him aside and go on to the next sucker.

Instead of thanking me for my honesty he gave me a withering look and said, "Well, if that's the way you feel about Amelia I'll see that your name is removed from the wedding list."

Now my husband is furious with me. This brother is his favorite and he says we will never be invited to their home. I repeat my question: Does it pay to be honest?—CANNOT LIE

Dear Ann Landers: There's a vast difference between being honest and chopping people into hamburger. Cruel and vicious remarks masked as "an honest opinion" fool no one.

The next time you are asked such a question, say something pleasant. Every person has at least ONE good quality.

Dear Ann Landers: I promised myself the next time you did it I would write to you and today is the day. Please, please stop suggesting volunteer work as therapy for crazy, mixed-up dames.

Women who are capable of performing a real service to the community don't need to be told to join anything. They are right in there pitching and doing a wonderful job.

Great Naval Battle Said A 'Muddle'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — England's defeat of the Spanish Armada almost 400 years ago was, as every schoolchild of my generation was taught, a magnificent victory and one of the world's great naval battles.

It was something of a shock to be informed by NBC's fine news department special, "The Spanish Armada" Sunday night that the whole thing was a mess; the two fleets missed each other a few times and when they finally got together, fired cannon at each other for hours without sinking any ships; and that fierce storms and lack of supplies did more damage to the Spanish than Britain's naval might.

What has been taught as a great confrontation between two mighty nations actually was "a muddled engagement" which has been deliberately built by the British into a myth, according to the narrator.

In addition to casting some startling light on old history, the color program was a delight to the eye. There were beautiful shots of Spain — ancient castles, splendid paintings and rich green countryside. The film made on the ocean was most effective, particularly the shots reproducing the fighting between the awkward old ships. The strategy of the opposing navies was graphically and amusingly illustrated by chart.

CBS' "What's My Line?" with Kitty Carlisle temporarily occupying the panel position held by the late Dorothy Kilgallen for almost 16 years, was a rather subdued, sad half hour Sunday night.

Host John Daly opened the program with a brief statement of grief at the columnist's death, adding that all agreed that the best way to express their sense of loss and pay highest tribute would be to play the game "just as we did when she was here."

They tried — Arlene Francis, Bennett Cerf, Steve Allen and Miss Carlisle. But of the four contestants, they managed to guess the occupation of only one, a lady barber.

At program's end, each panelist spoke of Miss Kilgallen in affectionate terms, and Allen, once a program regular, compared this poor score with Dorothy's special skill at the guessing game.

New Victim Of Ratings Bites Dust

NEW YORK (AP) — Another victim of the ratings game quietly bit the television dust Monday. It will be mourned, partly for what it tried to bring to television but mostly for what will take its place.

The program scheduled for extinction is a high-minded interview show, ABC's "The Young Set." At an hour — 11 a.m. EST to noon — when the two rival networks are filled with soap opera and reruns of old Dick Van Dyke and Andy Griffith shows, Moderator Phyllis Kirk tried valiantly and often successfully to provide intelligent opinion and stimulating conversation.

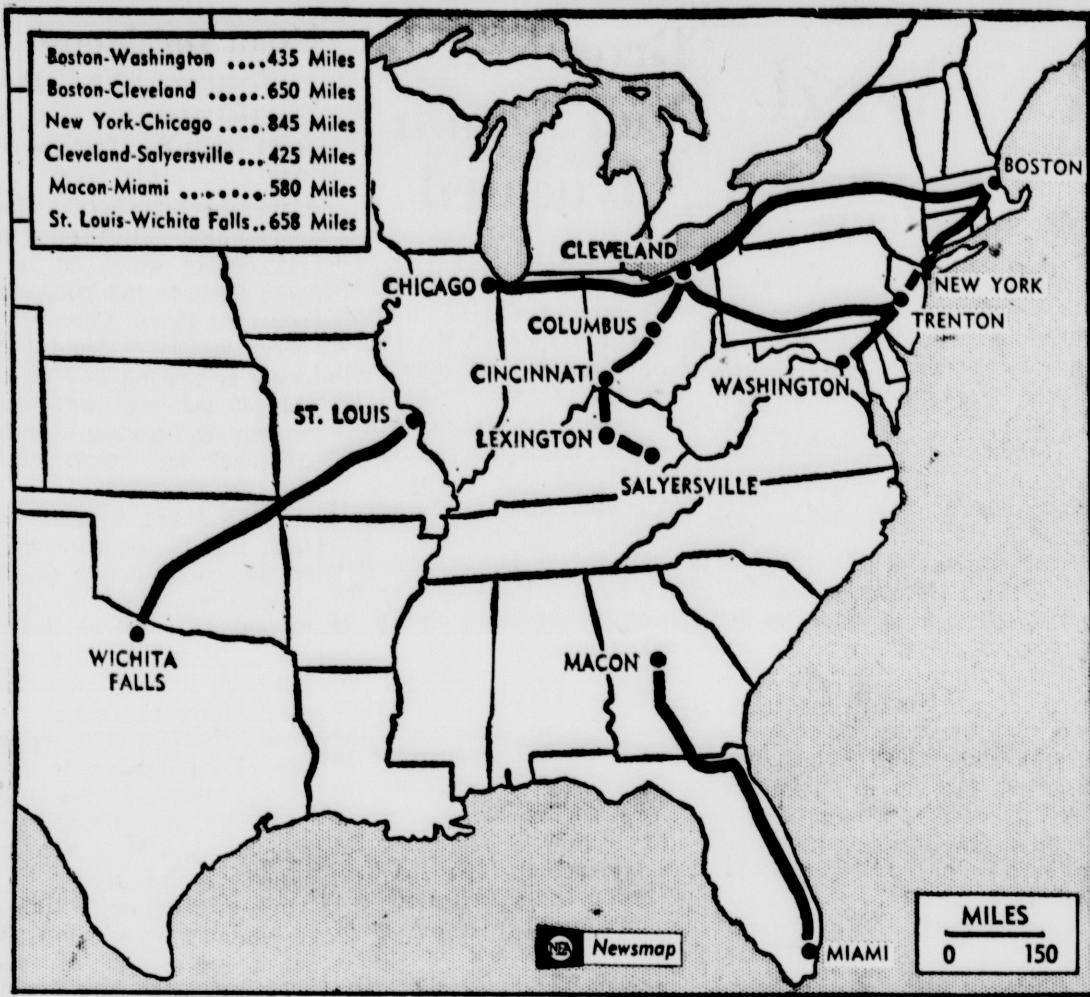

Miss Kirk, whose television comedy series, "The Thin Man" is still playing around the country, brought together specialists and personalities ranging from dog trainers to Dick Gregory. This reporter once tuned in on a session in which a Protestant Episcopal bishop, a Catholic priest and an agnostic were in civilized and enlightening conversation.

"The Young Set" dies Dec. 17 and on Dec. 20 will be replaced by two half-hour game shows.

One, called "Supermarket Sweepstakes," will feature women bidding on items in stores. The winners will then be turned loose in a self-service store to scoop up as much merchandise as possible within a time limit.

The second, "Dating Game," will present eligible spinsters and bachelors after some sort of a computerized selection process.

CBS' "What's My Line?" producers have no immediate plans to replace the late Dorothy Kilgallen on the panel. For the LOOK MA—NO STOP LIGHTS!—Slowly, but steadily, nonstop highways are snaking along, particularly in the traffic-congested East. Newsmap above shows how nonstop links between cities are lengthening. You can now buzz along the 435 miles of the nation's most crowded highways between Boston and Washington without pulling up for a red light. The same goes for the long stretch between Boston and Salersville, Ky., via Cleveland, Cincinnati and Lexington. The Western motorist enjoys fewer "all-go" routes, but one notable run is the uninterrupted traffic flow between St. Louis and Wichita Falls, Tex.

May Shop Well Ahead For Dinners

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some day the American homemaker may shop for the family dinner two years ahead of time and file it in a cabinet.

Food technologists are refining processes such as freeze drying so that well-flavored instant steaks, seafood and poultry in packages can be stored indefinitely, without refrigeration.

Campers, hunters, fishermen and mountain climbers have been eating freeze-dried foods for years. But only recently have such foods moved into kitchens.

The biggest push this year has been on breakfast cereals containing freeze-dried blueberries, strawberries, apples, and now, bananas and ice cream.

Freeze-dried fruit cereals sell for 37 cents a box, compared to 25 cents for plain cereals.

"Currently, the cost of production of the freeze-dried vegetables and fruits now available is well beyond that which would be acceptable to a broad range of customers," says Arthur E. Larkin Jr., executive vice president of General Foods Corp. But he added: "The freeze-dry technique promises eventually to provide products at reasonable prices."

Kermit Bird, a U.S. Department of Agriculture economist, estimated 5.6 million pounds of food were freeze-dried in 1962, 11.3 million in 1963 and 25 million last year.

The total will reach 317 million pounds by 1970, he predicted.

Already, the freeze-dried products include coffee, chives, parsley, pepper, asparagus, orange juice, macaroni, rice, mushrooms, apples, pineapples, fruit salad, ham patties, pork chops, beef steak, pot roast, chicken stew, shrimp, scrambled eggs, and omelets.

They are used extensively by astronauts and the armed forces.

The Army used dried foods during World War II, but they had an off-flavor, caused by the heat-drying process. Then scientists adapted the freeze-drying process that had been used to produce blood plasma.

next few weeks, at least, her spot will be filled by what producers Goodson and Todman call "members of the G-T family" — Betty White, Peggy Cass, Kitty Carlisle and Bess Myerson among them.

Northeast Sees Relief From Drouth

NEW YORK (AP) — The approach of winter with its expected snows and icy temperatures almost surely will affect the drought in the Northeast.

That effect could be either for the good or the bad. Plenty of snow would allow moisture to seep down to replenish underground sources. Then, in the spring thaw, the runoff would raise reservoir levels.

But a deep frost could seal off the water table and prevent any moisture from reaching the table.

"If there is a deep freeze-up, without snow first, there could be a water shortage again before spring," said a spokesman for the Massachusetts Agriculture Department.

James M. Weigle, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey in New Hampshire, said that a light snow also could mean dry wells before spring.

Autumn rains have brought some relief to the parched areas.

One of the hardest-hit areas has been New York City, where water conservation has become a way of life. Asked if some restrictions would be lifted for the winter, Water Commissioner Armand D'Angelo replied, "Definitely not."

D'Angelo said his department's engineers are looking for new ways to save water. He has asked them to see how much city water is used in winter to flood vacant land for ice skating. If it's too much, he indicated it may be banned.

Water restrictions are being continued in many cities, but some communities in New Hampshire are relaxing the restrictions.

The water shortage in New Hampshire is not considered critical, said George M. McGee, chairman of the State Water Resources Board.

The outlook is not as bright in New Jersey.

The state's two largest water systems, which supply the heavily populated northern sections, are in "serious condition," said Robert A. Roe, state commissioner of conservation and economic development.

of rain this month. Rainfall so far in November has been only 2.0 inch.

The situation in Philadelphia is a little worse than last year but no trouble is seen unless the drought continues into next year, said Joseph W. Radziul, chief of research and development for the water department.

Nelson Kauffman, climatologist for the U.S. Weather Bureau in Harrisburg, said rainfall is two to three inches below normal in Pennsylvania, but the "worst part of the drought is over."

The water supply in New York State is "better in general" this year than last, but the severe drought still lingers in many sections.

"Water restrictions are being extended into the winter months because we don't know what will happen next year," said Heinz Russelmann, chief of the State Health Department's water supply office.

The drought in Vermont has been less severe this year than in 1964, but dairy farmers in the southern sections have been hard hit.

Boston and eastern Massachusetts are in for a severe water shortage unless there is relief, said Malcolm Graf, director of the State Water Resources Commission. The western section is "now keeping up its levels and even picking up a little water."

He Said Going Fine

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Doctors attending former President Dwight D. Eisenhower say he is doing fine after his second heart attack.

The Ft. Gordon information officer, Capt. Wallace Hitchcock, relayed this medical bulletin from the doctors' spokesman, Dr. Thomas W. Mattingly, late Monday afternoon:

"Gen. Eisenhower is still resting comfortably and doctors continue to express pleasure at the progress made by the five-star general.

"Again this afternoon the famous patient spent the hours reading, listening to stereophonic music and chatting with members of his personal staff. As yet he has not been out of bed."

While doctors refuse to say whether any plans have been made to move the general to Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, Eisenhower's son, John, who now lives in Phoenixville, Pa., said before his departure for home Sunday night he hoped he could spend Thanksgiving with his father in Washington.

Wait Over For Many Big 1 Wives

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — They call themselves "The Wives Who Wait."

For some of them the waiting is over. The husbands they waited for will never come back from the fighting in Viet Nam. They have died in action with the 101st Airborne Division, whose home base is Ft. Campbell.

For others the waiting goes on. They meet over coffee from time to time to help keep up each other's morale.

At a recent meeting, movies of the 101st Airborne in action, pieced together from television film and newsreels, were shown to The Wives Who Wait.

Some members of the audience rushed out in tears when they saw pictures of their husbands flash across the screen. Some of the husbands were still alive, some were dead. Three had been killed in the preceding four days.

About 8,000 of the U. S. troops committed in Southeast Asia have been dispatched from this sprawling base on the Tennessee-Kentucky border since July.

Many of the wives remained here because this is home to the career soldiers and their families. The mutual interest group formed by the wives has done much to help them face the sometimes tragic problems that result from war.

"These are things we have to talk about because we know it's a real war, even though we're sitting in a nice room in pretty dresses," says Joan Rawls.

Mrs. Rawls no longer waits. Her husband, Capt. Robert Rawls, was raked by machine gun fire and killed as he took his Charlie Company, 1st Brigade, 101st Airborne, up a hill near An Ninh Sept. 18.

"The importance of this mutual bonding system is really seen in critical situations, when someone is killed," said Capt. Bobby Bell of Meridian, Idaho, a base chaplain.

"They've gained strength from one another," said Maj. Gen. Beverley E. Powell, commanding general at Ft. Campbell. "They know they're not in this thing alone. Suddenly they find they've got real friends all over the place."

Jury

(Continued from Page One) altercation had remained clouded until the inquest and local authorities had been unable to locate Martin, the prime suspect, and his associate, Ralph Edwards, who shared an apartment with him at 122½ South Ohio. Martin and Edwards, however, appeared in the courtroom shortly before the inquest convened and were accompanied by their attorney.

Snyder was taken to Bothwell Hospital in an ambulance following the altercation about 6:30 p. m. Saturday.

Died of Blow

Drs. Robert Glass and Frank Manatt, who treated Snyder at the hospital, both testified he died as the result of a severe blow to the head resulting in extensive tearing and swelling of the brain.

Glass testified Snyder was unresponsive and unconscious when he first examined him and said the decedent had a strong odor compatible with alcohol on his breath. The doctor continued that Snyder had a large bruised area behind his right ear, blood and spinal fluid was flowing from his right ear and his jaw was fractured on both sides.

The doctors ordered Snyder into emergency surgery in an effort to drain an apparent collection of blood inside his skull, they testified, but exploratory surgery revealed profuse swelling and general injury to the brain.

Both testified Snyder had suffered an "irreversible or fatal" brain injury at the time of the original blow.

Outside A Bar

Mrs. Delores Hopkins, 1400 East Seventh, who was in the Chez When Bar, 121 East Third, with Snyder prior to the fatal altercation, testified she and Snyder were seated at a table when Edwards entered the bar.

When Edwards left, she said Snyder followed him outside the bar and then called her out also.

Breaking into tears at one point in her testimony, Mrs. Hopkins described an exchange of words between Snyder and Edwards and said the two had proceeded west on Third Street to near the alley at the Royal Hotel. She said the two men were face to face and that Martin, the alleged assailant, had followed them down the sidewalk.

"The next thing I knew Odie Martin had hit Bill (Snyder) and he fell in the street," she testified.

She said another man who had been in the bar, Freddie Boyer, grabbed at Martin; but she called to him to aid the injured Snyder. The ambulance was summoned by Judy Hicks, an employee in the Chez When Bar.

No Other Blows

Mrs. Hopkins said she saw Edwards and Snyder exchange no blows and that Snyder's back was turned when Martin struck him. But, Mrs. Hopkins testified she was unable to say whether Martin had any weapon in his hand.

Boyer testified that neither Edwards or Snyder had made any attempt to strike Martin. Boyer added later that he saw Martin and Edwards leaving the scene at what he described as a "half run." They departed west on Third Street, he said.

Edwards, the last man called to the stand, told the jury his name and address and then Attorney Brown advised him not to answer any additional questions on the grounds that his answers might tend to incriminate him.

Immunity From Subpoena

Prosecutors Fritz and Buckley then called a five-minute recess and drew a subpoena for Edwards and he resumed testimony although his replies shed little light on the incident. The subpoena, however, granted Edwards immunity to any charge arising out of the inquest.

Edwards' testimony was that Martin was at his side, in direct contradiction to testimony of other witnesses, and Edwards said he did not see Martin strike Snyder. Edwards added that all he heard "was a sudden shuffle" behind him and when he turned he saw Snyder lying in the street.

He and Martin then left the scene, he testified, and a short time later left Sedalia in Edwards' automobile and returned to where they worked in Illinois. He did not name the location of their work, however. Both are pipeline employees.

Other Testimony

Other testimony was given by Judy Hicks, the bar employee; Kenneth Dittion, owner of the Chez When Bar; and Police Officers Joseph Bass and Walter Long, who first answered the police call to the scene.

Testimony dragged at the outset of the inquest as the official court reporter, James Giokaris, who normally takes the shorthand transcript of testimony, was out-of-town and Mrs. Mabel Glenn substituted taking the testimony in manual shorthand.

Mrs. Glenn is a secretary in the law office of William F. Brown, John McCloskey and James T. Buckley.

Giokaris arrived later, however, and took the transcript of

Accidents

Two Sedalia youths and a Warrensburg woman were injured in a two-car collision at the junction of Highway 50 and Route 127 in LaMonte at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Treated and released at Johnson County Memorial Hospital, Warrensburg, were Gary Yancey, 18, 1421 South Carr, the driver of one of the cars involved, and 17-year-old Ray Vogel, Route 2, a passenger in the Yancey machine.

Bertha Higgins, 64, Warrensburg, the driver of the other car, was the most severely injured in the mishap and she was reported at noon to be in fair condition at the Johnson County hospital. She is believed to have suffered fractured ribs and head and back injuries.

Troop A Highway Patrol headquarters in Lee's Summit said the crash occurred as the east-bound Higgins auto, a 1962 sedan, made a left turn in front of the west-bound 1954 sedan driven by young Yancey. The Yancey vehicle struck the Higgins auto in the right side, the patrol reported. Trooper Pete Stohr investigated the mishap.

Two cars collided at Second and Lamine at 1:12 p. m. Monday resulting in damage to both.

Police listed the vehicles as a 1960 Mercury, being driven east on Second by Robert H. Hunter, 28, 1816 West 18th, and a 1958 Chevrolet, driven north on Lamine by D. A. Butterbaugh, 24, 1220 South Massachusetts.

Butterbaugh was issued a summons for careless and imprudent driving and is to appear in Police Court on Nov. 18, police said.

The right side of the Hunter auto and the left front of the Butterbaugh vehicle were damaged.

Slight damage occurred to both cars involved in an mishap on the east parking lot of Bothwell Hospital at 3:31 p. m. Monday.

Involved were a 1965 Oldsmobile, driven by John M. Hewitt, 55, Prairie Village, Kan., and a 1951 Dodge, driven by Lorine Doris Bicks, 32, Route 3, Lockwood, Mo.

According to the accident report, the Dodge rolled from its parking space into the right rear of the Oldsmobile.

Circuit Court

Copies of the docket listing cases pending in Circuit Court have been prepared in the office of Circuit Clerk Bryan Howe in readiness for the docket setting of the November term of court next Monday, Nov. 22.

She alleges the Stines were owners of the Carlyle Motel in Oklahoma City, Okla., on Nov. 24, 1963, when she registered at the motel and suffered an injury in a fall. She claims negligence on the part of the defendants in alleging she stumbled and fell through the doorway of the room assigned to her as

Broad-Scale Viet Action Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell advocated today broad-scale U.S. military action to knock out the harbor of Haiphong in North Viet Nam.

Russell, Georgia Democrat who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he believes the tide of battle in South Viet Nam no longer is running in favor of the Viet Cong. But he said to turn it definitely for the United States the harbor at Haiphong should be knocked out.

Haiphong, an important industrial city with a population of about 370,000, is located in the Gulf of Tonkin area about 50 miles from the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi.

"I believe we should bring the fleet into action, mine the harbor from the air, tell other nations to keep their ships out of there and knock out the waterfront," he said in an interview.

"I see no point in bombing the half-starved people of either Hanoi or Haiphong, but we should cut off the line of military supplies by enforcing a blockade," Russell said.

"I think this would have a very material effect on the progress of the war without bringing any acceleration of the conflict by our opponents. I do not believe the Chinese are going to get into the war unless the Russians should move in and that doesn't seem likely."

Russell said he favors increased bombing of North Viet Nam ground-to-air missile sites. He said he had urged Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to bomb the sites around Hanoi when they first were disclosed but the decision went against such action.

The Georgia senator, who just returned from a visit to the Dominican Republic and an inspection tour of Caribbean defense installations, said the situation in Santo Domingo remains potentially explosive.

"I think things are becoming more stable every day there," he said. "But there still is a hard core of well-trained dedicated Communists underground and the situation is fraught with danger from them."

discuss recreation, and Chairman Jones then introduced Jaeger.

Jaeger told of the Federal government setting up a fund of $125,000 of which 60 per cent goes back to the states and 40 per cent to the Corps of Engineers for their planning. "Missouri is sharing in both the 60 and 40 per cent with approximately $2.5 million coming into Missouri for recreation," he brought out.

Under House Bill 304 not less than half of the Federal funds on recreation are to go to municipalities and counties for matching funds in their projects. "Missouri," Jaeger said, "through its preliminary planning presented to the government, was the 12th state approved for funds. He said at present there are 19 projects underway, four by cities and counties, and 14 by the Conservation Commission."

Jaeger also said a "time table of planning" would have to be set up and as projects were approved and matching funds provided by the county and city, funds would come from the government. He also said two methods could be used in obtaining funds, one general obligation bonds to be voted by the people, another whereby the county could create a Public County Park Board which would set a tax levy on which would have to vote its approval.

During a question and answer program, it was brought out a "buffer" area around the lake would be compulsory whereby no private lands would connect with the lake, as the lake and the area around it would be open to the public. However, it was also brought out anyone using the lake and area would be charged a fee for that privilege.

It was brought out that approximately 3,001 acres of land would be involved, which would form a 900 acre lake. It was also brought out there were a number of farm land parcels of 10 and 15 acres which would have to be bought, which would not necessarily be called farms. No mention of the number of farms was reported.

Jones also answered one question about the value of the land by saying it would cover mostly timber land, some pasture and some bottom lands. "A lot of the land is scrub country which will be worth more than it is today," Jones said in answer to a question as to how much would the land cost.

Jones said when the plan was first studied and presented to the Sedalia Water Board by Black and Veatch, engineers, it covered about 1,300 acres and would have cost about $1,400,000. Now it's 3,001 acres and estimated cost is possibly $2-million. The first figure he explained was for water supply only with no recreation involved.

Glaser compared the area with that of Lake Jacomo in Jackson County, which has a buffer shore line and where a fee is charged for the privilege of using it.

Jones pointed out it would be necessary for fees to pay the costs of operation and maintenance.

Byrd Demands Same Type Of Cooperation As Father

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. is demanding the same kind of fiscal responsibility his father advocated as the price of cooperation with President Johnson.

Congratulating the 50-year-old Virginia Democrat on his appointment to fill the seat Sen. Harry F. Byrd, 78, resigned last Thursday, Johnson said in a telegram he wants to work closely with the new senator.

On this score, Byrd made it plain he will apply as his father did before him the yardstick of how much Johnson's programs will cost and how they will be paid for.

The younger Byrd said Johnson has his support in the course the President is pursuing in the Viet Nam war. But on the domestic front, the new senator said he will examine each White House legislative proposal on its merits but will not be committed in advance to blanket opposition to the "Great Society" programs.

The elder Byrd, who sat beaming as his senatorial successor son was interviewed Sunday at Rosemont, the family home in Berryville, Va., has gone down the line in opposition to practically all of the social welfare legislation Johnson has sponsored.

The junior Byrd made it clear that while he expects to follow the course hewed out by his father in 32 years in the Senate, he regards himself as a forward-looking conservative in tune with the changing times and conditions.

Byrd will be running in the Virginia primary next July not only on the Byrd name but on the record he hopes to make in six months as a senator.

"My father has made his record; now I must make mine," he said.

"I feel that legislators, like businessmen and individual citizens, must continuously look forward — as times and conditions change. I would like to consider myself as a progressive in the sense that it is important to continue to look forward in order to serve the best interests of all the people. There are certain fundamentals that don't change — the constitutional concepts of government, and I feel that true progress can only be made through fiscal responsibility."

In other weekend political developments:

—Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana said he had heard nothing of any move to force him to give up his post as assistant Senate Democratic leader when he succeeds the elder Byrd as Senate Finance Committee chairman in January. He said he sees little prospect for a tax cut in the next year or so.

—Barry Goldwater said he doesn't think John V. Lindsay's victory in the New York City mayor's race is causing any great furor in the Republican party. The 1964 GOP presidential nominee added, "I think there's an attitude of let's wait and see what kind of job he does."

—A spokesman for the Republican National Committee said Republicans will soon start a full study of national nominating conventions that could lead to revamping the 1968 session. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had proposed such a move aimed at cutting down convention confusion and noise.

In his interview, Byrd aired his views on a number of issues that seem likely to come before the Senate in the session beginning in January.

He said he does not believe any additional civil rights legislation is needed. It would be a mistake, he said, for Congress to repeal a section of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits states to ban the union shop.

The new senator said he favors and would vote for a proposed constitutional amendment to permit state voters to apportion one house of their legislature on other than a population basis as the Supreme Court has decreed.

On budget balancing, the new senator said, "I feel that sooner or later we'll need to put our fiscal house in a little better order and I hope that a start can be made toward bringing the budget into balance."

Love Blooms In Filming Of a Series

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm in love with my wife but we're not really married," says blond young giant Denny Miller.

The statement is true but not quite that provocative.

Denny is Juliet Prowse's husband on the "Mona McCluskey" television show. He had never met Juliet before he was signed to the show.

Now they are in love with each other both on and off the screen.

Denny is a rugged and eligible bachelor. He has never been married before. Neither has South African-born Juliet.

Denny, once a movie Tarzan, is an ex-basketball star at UCLA. He got into the movies literally via moving van.

"I took a job moving furniture during summer vacation from UCLA. Most of the furniture I moved my first day went into agency offices in Hollywood and Beverly Hills."

In one afternoon no less than five agents handed him their cards and told him he should be in the movies.

He kept the cards, finished school and took one — Robert Raison — up on the offer. Raison is still his agent.

Universal put him under contract and later he appeared with Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Shirley MacLaine in "Some Came Running."

His rugged frame soon got him spotted as the 13th Tarzan.

Then came a role on "Wagon Train." When that show folded, he was out of work until he was called for the series with Juliet.

Eliminations Probably Legal

Reserve Plan 'Not Intent of Congress'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. L. Mendel Rivers says the Defense Department's immediate elimination of 751 Army Reserve units "probably is legal, but it isn't the intent of Congress."

Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, was reached Sunday night at his home in Charleston, S.C., following Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's announcement of the cutback.

The McNamara action affects 55,000 men in more than a dozen states, including Rivers' own South Carolina.

It came despite a request by the Senate Armed Services Committee that the secretary delay any such action until next March.

Most members of that committee couldn't be reached, but one, Republican Margaret Chase Smith, said at her home in Skowhegan, Maine, that the decision was "very disturbing."

She said, however, that she had been traveling over the weekend, and hadn't had time

Side Effect of Desegregation

'Protective Tariff' Drops For Middle-Class Negroes

By ADREN COOPER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Segregation has provided a "protective tariff" beneficial to most Negro professionals and businessmen, and the process of desegregation "is already affecting adversely some of the key segments of the Negro middle class."

This statement is surprising because it comes from Dr. Andrew F. Brimmer, a Negro and top-ranking economist in the Commerce Department.

Dr. Brimmer, whose title is assistant secretary for economic affairs, offers statistics which indicate that Negro businessmen may have to work harder and compete for business from both the white and nonwhite communities in order to survive.

"Obviously, I am by no means suggesting that the process of desegregation should be slowed down in order to lessen the effects on the Negro middle class," Brimmer said in a recent speech.

"Rather, I do want to emphasize that — while it may be embarrassing to view our own image in the mirror of change — we should look critically at ourselves and be instructed by what we see."

Brimmer said Negro businessmen who have been most successful provide services which, because of segregation, are not readily available to the Negro consumer in the community as a whole. Examples are Negro-owned restaurants, barber shops, hotels and mortuaries.

Negro businessmen, Brimmer added, have made little headway in those fields where Negro consumers have free access to retail outlets — department stores, hardware, furnishings.

There are few Negro-owned enterprises in manufacturing, which requires large capital outlays and broad markets.

The statistics showed that Negroes fared far better in the professions serving only the Negro community — teachers, ministers, etc.

A concrete example of the effect of desegregation on Negro professionals is the dismissal of some Negro teachers after a community's schools have been integrated. Brimmer said this trend has been reported in Texas, North Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Florida and Oklahoma.

For the Negro businessman, Brimmer recommends joint ventures with white-dominated corporations. The Commerce Department has developed a sizable list of companies which are willing to grant franchises for sale of their products without regard to race.

Alcohol, Drugs In Kilgallen Death

NEW YORK (AP) — An assistant medical examiner reports that a moderate mixture of alcohol and barbiturates caused the death of Dorothy Kilgallen, 52, Broadway columnist and television panelist.

Dr. James Luke said in his report Monday that the circumstances of death were "inconclusive" and he did not rule on whether the death was accidental or suicide.

Miss Kilgallen was found dead in bed in her apartment a week ago Monday. A preliminary autopsy ruled out a heart attack but did not reveal the cause of death.

After further tests, Luke said Miss Kilgallen died of "acute ethanol (alcohol) and barbiturate intoxication." The quantities of alcohol and barbiturates in the bloodstream were not excessive, he said, but the combination caused a fatal "depression on the general nervous system."

The Saturday announcement referred to the merger controversy by saying: "The inactivation does not involve any merger or consolidation of the Army Reserve into the National Guard."

The Pentagon said McNamara, Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance, Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, "carefully considered the resolution of the Senate Armed Services Committee."

"They decided that the immediate inactivation of these units, which are not required by contingency war plans, is essential."

The men in the disbanded units have the option of switching to a priority reserve reinforcement pool where they would have no unit connection.

The elimination hits hardest at six divisions — the 63rd of California, the 77th of New York, the 90th of Texas, the 83rd of Ohio-West Virginia, the 102nd of Missouri-Illinois and the 81st of Georgia-North Carolina-South Carolina-Tennessee. These outfits include some 42,000 men.

Ike Weathers Great Danger Period of Life

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has weathered what his son describes as the period of greatest danger after his heart attack.

Son John and younger brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, were sufficiently encouraged by Eisenhower's progress to head back to their homes Sunday night after observing Mrs. Eisenhower's 69th birthday.

John would not say they no longer felt any anxiety about the condition of the five-star general, now 75.

But, he explained to newsmen, when "the second set of chest pains occurred this last Wednesday, we were advised at that time the period of greatest danger would be four or five days from that point on."

"That time period has ended," John added. And, said the two Eisenhowers, the reports from physicians have been encouraging.

"He seems to me to be really in excellent condition," said Milton Eisenhower, who observed that Ike "seems to me ever so much better" than he was at the same period after his 1955 heart attack in Denver.

He feels good enough, they said, to read "one Western story after another," and has had a record player installed so he can listen to music. He chatted with Milton about the musical, "The Sound of Music," and inspected his wife's birthday cakes from his bed.

Mrs. Eisenhower remained in bed Sunday for what son John called a "very modest birthday celebration."

He had described her condition Saturday as "not too hot" but said she had improved by Sunday.

Alcohol: Big Water Saver

Arizonans, along with nearly everyone else in the Southwest, have a water problem. In some sections of the state, wells must be dug 25 feet deeper every year to reach the water table.

The situation is serious enough to be driving some people to alcohol for at least a partial solution to their troubles.

Temperance folk need not be alarmed, however. The alcohol is being used to cut down the evaporation of stored water.

Researchers at the University of Arizona are working on a wind-powered device that meters emulsified alcohol onto the surface of tanks and reservoirs where it forms a thin film that retards evaporation. As the film dissipates, the gadget automatically supplies more evaporation suppressant.

Two years of tests with a 53 by 78-foot pond in Tucson showed that evaporation was cut up to 35 per cent. It is estimated that the system would cost a farmer only 80 cents for every thousand gallons of water saved.

The scientists point out that if all the precipitation that falls on the state could be caught, stored and saved, Arizona would get a 20-year supply of water in one year.

But even the capture of only a small percentage of this moisture could transform desert areas into gardens.

A Toe-Hold for 'Squares In Bronx'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's more than just a wild and woolly time. It's a hodge-podge, left and right.

"Real squares. Old ladies up in the Bronx." That's what some young radicals today call members of the American Communist party.

The weekly newspaper, the National Observer, which quoted them, said they are equally contemptuous of liberals and labor unions.

But Monday the party thought it got a shot in the arm and talked of running candidates for office. But George Lincoln Rockwell, commander of the American Nazi party, has already said he will run for president in 1972.

The Ku Klux Klan is in business. The ultraconservative Minutemen talk of their secret "underground army."

Robert Welch, founder of the right-wing John Birch Society, says of the United States: "It's 'one vast insane asylum' where 'they've let out the worst patients to run the place.'"

The Communist party has splinter groups. Student groups have splinter groups. Even the Republican party has splinters.

But long after thousands of today's young radicals sag into middle age, raising families and buying homes between trips to the bank, the Communist party will probably be still here.

At least it has an ideology, although it changes with the wind, while many and probably most of the young radicals have only upset emotions and incoherence.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover considers the Communist party a "Moscow-controlled" menace and part of an international Communist conspiracy. He called Gus Hall, the party's chief spokesman, "Moscow-trained."

It was Hall who Monday, after a Supreme Court decision, got the idea that now the party could run candidates, although its claimed membership has dropped from perhaps 100,000 in the 1930s to 10,000 now.

The court held unconstitutional a provision requiring a party member to register as such with the federal government.

This was the reasoning: For failure to register he could be prosecuted and jailed. But if he did register, he could be prosecuted under another law which makes it a crime to belong to a group that advocates overthrowing the government.

Thus, if he registered, he would be risking incriminating himself under the other law. The court pointed out that under the Constitution's Fifth Amendment a man can't be compelled to incriminate himself.

In the 1930s — although the Communist party's part in it was very small — the great domestic crusade was to organize workers into unions. They joined in the millions.

Earlier this month, in a special story on the radical left among the young, the New York Times, picking out the Students for a Democratic Society as the "largest single radical student group on or around campuses," said that the SDS had "pretty much given up the working class as lost, having fallen prey to the union and the Democratic party."

The Times says SDS claims 3,000 members, with 90 chapters around the country.

The National Observer, not limiting itself to student groups, said the new left places less emphasis on economic problems, more on "human freedom," and only a few splinter groups try to "out-Mao Mao Tse-tung."

Yet, the newspaper went on, "even a tiny splinter group possesses the capacity for mischief if it also possesses dynamite." Some groups are on a crusade against poverty and the war in Viet Nam.

FBI's Hoover says "the Communist party is today expending tremendous energy attempting to increase its influence among college students."

Analyze Teacher's Words

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: The week that school opened our son had an abscess under a tooth that kept him at home for two days. Last week his new fourth grade teacher called me to school for a conference. First, she said that he could not afford any more absences from class as his attention span is poor and that he is too "suggestible" to distraction by other children. She then asked me if our home was "disturbed." Mrs. Lawrence, my marriage is a happy one. The boy is a good student...

Answer: Then what are you worrying about? Your home doesn't have to be "disturbed" because the lady seems to want it to be. Nor does your son have to be "suggestible" to distraction because she says he is. It's just possible, you know, that what's poor is not his "attention span" but her teaching, that it bores your child, that she knows it, can't stand it and uses these psychological words to make you as anxious about the boy as she is about herself.

And you've fallen for them. Look. These are days when parents have to remember that the powerful mental health profession is powerfully promoting its desire to turn teachers into reporters on emotional disturbance in their students. While it's certainly true that schools can help in detecting its symptoms, it is also true that emotionally disturbed teachers tend to interpret this promotion as license to offer us free psychiatric diagnoses, not only of our children's behavior but of ours, too. Thus, a teacher who can't bear the thought that her teaching may need improvement will call us to school to accuse us and a child of being bad psychological things like "disturbed," "suggestible," "bizarre." This makes her feel very powerful, very superior — a feeling she may badly need to improve her teaching.

The improvement is what we want for the child, isn't it?

So, if calling us the bad names adds to her teaching confidence, for heaven's sake, let's let her go to it. If it doesn't, and she continues to hint at sinister psychological defects in our child the sensible answer is, "Then why don't we call in your school psychologist to examine him and put him through the tests?"

Teachers are not psychologists. Their psychiatric diagnoses of us and children are not reliable. Some, however, pick up the patten just as many other Americans pick it up to hit other people over the head.

Is English Enough?

By SUSAN LIGHT

Susan Light

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: In a recent column you suggested to a parent that she torture her child with French instead of tormenting him with Spanish. The reasons you gave are current, of course, in our American academic community, but mainly because our educational leaders haven't yet shrugged off the medieval dusts.

The only possible reasons for learning an alien tongue are (1) to converse in it, or (2) to read something worthwhile in it. I will know it's fashionable in certain circles to insist that the languages foisted off on our children be German or French. The assumption is that these once great peoples are doing things worth-while which our scholars should know about.

But the fact is, Mrs. Light, in 1956 the Modern Language Association pointed out that French is the first language of only 65 million people and German, 100 million. Chinese, on the other hand, is the first language of 500 million, English of 275, Urdu and Russian of 150 each, and Bengali of 67. Japanese is the first language of 100 million, and they are doing perfectly marvelous things in biology, optics and surgery.

So why hawk French when they haven't really done anything worth-while in this century? Our educational thinkers ought to take another look at what we are doing to see if our languages are accomplishing what we need them to accomplish.

Languages we need, by all means, but to force everybody into them is absurd, even for a Ph.D., just as it would be absurd to require all graduate students to be able to pass examinations in psychology and pharmacology, even diluted down as the language tests are. We cannot afford to waste teaching time, and this is one of the areas where we could tighten up. Give languages to those who need them. Let those who have no need for them get good translations. — 's salaam aleikum, Language Debunker

One of the members of the Danish ladies' team at the European bridge championship tournament opened the South hand with three clubs. West and North passed and after much study East managed to make a take-out double. Needless to say, West passed and the Danish lady had to struggle at that contract.

A look at all the cards shows that the defense have one spade trick, two heart tricks, one diamond and two trumps waiting for them and should collect a 500-point penalty.

The Danish lady noted this peril also and worked out a father neat swindle to hold her loss to down one.

Spades opened and continued. She ruffed the second spade and led a diamond to dummy's queen. Then she returned a diamond. West won with the ace and decided that South was trying to set up a diamond ruff. Then she led a trump in order to stop this, whereupon South only had to lose one trump trick.

Maybe West should not have fallen for this, but South had given her the chance to go wrong and she did.

It was a most important trick to save. At the other table the Danish ladies bid three no-trump and made four so that Denmark gained 230 points or six IMPs instead of losing 70 points or two IMPs.

Ex-Nazi Prisoner Finds New Hope

By DREW PEARSON

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his two grandsons living in California, George and Joseph Arnold.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.
NOVEMBER 13, 1965

DEAR BOYS:

The other night at a meeting of the Maimonides Dental Society, I sat beside a dentist named Max Garson, who reminded me of one of the most important traditions of America. It's a tradition which you boys, when you grow up, must keep alive.

Dr. Garson was born in Poland and during the war was thrown into two Nazi prison camps. This was a terrible chapter in the history of the world, during which some 6,000,000 Jews were systematically murdered by Hitler merely because they were Jews. Somehow or other Dr. Garson managed to survive the most horrible prison camp of all, Auschwitz, and after the war he came to America.

Poland had been divided into two parts, one occupied by the German Army, the other by the Russians, and Dr. Garson's wife-to-be, then a young girl, was taken by the Russians to Siberia. After the war she returned, married the doctor, and they came to the United States.

At that time Dr. Garson did not even speak English. He had a European degree in dentistry, but had to study dentistry over again in the United States, and went to Howard University, which, as you know, is a Negro institution.

"I was one of eight white students in a class of about fifty," he told me. "Howard University has a very fine dental school, one of the finest in the country. The Negroes treated me with respect and courtesy."

"When I got out of dental school, I established an office in Waldorf, Md., just outside of Washington, and my landlady told me, 'If you're going to have Negro patients, you should have two offices.'"

"But I said to myself, 'I can't possibly do that. After the way the Negroes treated me, I would be ashamed to have a separate office for them.' So I established one office, where I have treated both white and Negro patients, and it has worked out very well."

Only In America

Dr. Garson came to the United States only a dozen years ago. And in that short period of time he has graduated from dental school, set up a dental office, and is trying to do his part to improve community relations.

"It could only happen in America," he told me.

This is true. There is no other country in the world which has opened its doors so generously to the downtrodden and oppressed of other countries and given them so many opportunities. I hope when you grow up, you will always keep our country that way.

Unfortunately, I have found that the Johnson administration does not always follow these goals, does not always give refuge to oppressed, native-born Americans who are forced to leave the difficult areas of the south.

Some time ago I met a Rabbi from Hattiesburg, Miss., David Ben-Ami, who, when protestant clergymen were arrested for picketing for civil rights, had gone to the jail to give aid and comfort to his fellow members of the cloth. The Rabbi's congregation was a little unhappy about this. They asked him if it was his usual custom to go to jails, and indicated that he should stay away from civil rights controversies.

They were even less happy when Rabbi Ben-Ami helped distribute turkeys to both Negroes and whites in Mississippi last Christmas. Finally, they suggested to him that he find another congregation. When the Rabbi came north, I tried to help him get a job with the anti-poverty program. But despite the fact that thousands of people have been hired by the far-flung anti-poverty administration, its executives could not find a permanent place for Rabbi Ben-Ami.

Another couple forced to leave Mississippi were the Albert Heffners of McComb. They had invited a lonesome young civil rights worker to their home for dinner. Immediately they were subjected to harassing phone calls from their neighbors, their home was surrounded by cars, they were warned not to entertain any more of the young students who had come down from the north to champion the rights of Negroes.

Eventually Al Heffner's business evaporated. Being an insurance man, his success depended on goodwill and for him goodwill had vanished. In fact, he faced a boycott. A courageous Mississippi newspaper editor, Hocking Carter, has written a book, "So The Heffners Left McComb," telling the story of how the Heffners, though native Mississippians, were forced to leave their home state. They came to Washington where they thought the Johnson administration, which had crusaded for civil rights, might be able to use their understanding of the south in improving racial understanding.

For a time Mrs. Heffner worked in the Head Start program while Mr. Heffner worked under former Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida in Community Relations.

Then suddenly they were dropped. And it was reported that one of President Johnson's old Senate friends from Mississippi had demanded that the Heffners be fired. It was all very mysterious and no one would comment. But anyway, the Heffners lost their jobs.

Thus, while the United States keeps its doors open to the oppressed of other lands, neither Sargent Shriver nor Leroy Collins was able to keep the Johnson administration's doors open to the oppressed of our own land.

I am sure that you and the other boys who will be running the country when you grow up will do better.

I hope you are studying hard for the Thanksgiving exams and will write me soon about your marks.

Name Bond Drive Team Captains

The Children's Therapy Center's annual fund drive is scheduled next Sunday. Pictured are those ladies who have volunteered to act in the capacity of "team captains" under the chairmanship of Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher. Work involves supervising the distribution of packets for collection to over 600 volunteer solicitors.

Each team captain has, as a part of her team, ten other volunteers to act as sub-captains and they are responsible to a large extent, for the success of the drive.

The Children's Therapy Center of Pettis County is a rehabilitation center treating some 43 various types of handicaps which range from very severe crippling conditions such as cerebral palsy, to the minor problems of articulation.

The Center has been in existence for 10 years. Initially it started with one paid teacher and approximately 9 children. It has grown to the extent that it now has a certified professional staff of 12 servicing over 120 children at the present time. Besides children, the Center also treats a limited number of adults on referral from family physicians.

One of the greatest tragedies of having a handicap in a rural area is not the fact that it can not be corrected but generally the fact that there is no place to go in a rural area to get it corrected, according to Roger Garlich director. The Center is unique in that it is the only comprehensive rehabilitation center operating in a rural community over the entire State. Professional people from all parts of the State have complimented the Center at State conventions, at State legislative meetings and at various organizational functions.

The Center is not now, and never has been, a part of the United Fund. The Center serves many types of handicaps. One of these is cerebral palsy. The services for these children are partially financed by the local chapter of United Cerebral Palsy which gets the money to pay for services for these children from the local United Fund but these children represent only 15 of the one hundred plus the Center is now serving, Garlich says.

This is the fifth year the center has conducted a door-to-door fund drive so that the people of Pettis County may contribute toward its work of rehabilitation.

It is through the efforts of each volunteer, whether she be a team captain, a sub-captain, or a solicitor, that the bond drive has been successful in the past, Garlich notes. The Center is financed entirely by voluntary contributions. It is a private Pettis County organization with no affiliation with any National or State organization. It owes no dues, nor pays dues, to any organization. All monies given to the Children's Therapy Center in this drive stay in Sedalia and Pettis County, the director says.

Visitors may view the Center operations one day this week as a week-long open house is in effect.

Soviet Union Farm Plan 'Sabotaged'

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Soviet leaders more than a year ago ordered a change designed to give farmers a break and to put more food on the tables of Russian homes.

That decision is still being sabotaged by old-line local officials, the magazine Kommunist reports.

Nikita Khrushchev's successors ordered that farmers once more be allowed to work their own small private plots of land after finishing their chores on the state's large collective farms.

The idea was to encourage the farmer to produce more food on his own to add to that raised on the state's farms. The more the farmer could raise and sell from his private plot, the more he would profit.

The Kommunist article showed how difficult it has been to put this little bit of private enterprise across. It also showed how long it can take for an order from top Soviet leaders to filter down to everyday practice.

The magazine cited these examples of "gross violations" of party and government orders:

Farmers who legally sell produce from their private plots have been denounced in local papers as economic speculators. Local officials have illegally restricted farmers from obtaining the fodder they need for livestock raised on their private plots. Local officials have illegally forced farmers to sell products from their private plots according to a plan of fixed sales targets.

Publication of the article in Kommunist indicated official concern at the highest level with these practices. The magazine is the journal of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party.

Kommunist said it based its article on numerous complaints from farmers.

50th Film Completed By Hitchcock

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Press agents being press agents, Alfred Hitchcock posed on tip-toes as he placed a script atop a stack of 50, representing the 50 films he has directed in his distinguished career.

Hitch, being Hitch, went along with the nonsense, dutifully laying the one marked "Torn Curtain" on all the others. As the still photographer took shot after shot, I contemplated what a diverse and imaginative quotient of chills the director has afforded movie-goers.

Another random thought: Hitchcock loves single-word titles. Among them: "Blackmail," "Murder," "Sabotage," "Suspicion," "Spellbound," "Saboteur," "Notorious," "Rope," "Psycho." They read almost like a post office bulletin board.

"It's quite a pile," Hitchcock remarked puckerily as he stepped away from the lights and appraised the titles.

Script No. 50 returns the old master to the genre he invented: the spy chase. It is a field that has been exploited recently by James Bond and his various imitators in films and television. But the others can't carry it off quite as well as Hitch, because they portray outlandish events outlandishly. That's not the Hitchcock style.

"It's the same now when I direct an actor like Paul Newman, who is schooled in the Strasberg style of method acting. He will ask me, 'What is my motivation?' I tell him to forget the motivation and get on with it. As long as the audience is held that's all that matters."

Method actor Newman is portraying an American nuclear physicist who defects to East Germany. He is followed by his fiancée, Julie Andrews, also a scientist and daughter of a U.S. senator.

Breedlove Regains Speed Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Craig Breedlove has won his duel with Art Arfons for the world land speed record — at least for this year.

Neither man disputes it. "I know we've got the record," the handsome Breedlove said Monday after recapturing the mark he has traded with Arfons the past year.

"There's major damage (to my car) — the repairs probably will take 30 to 40 days," Arfons said at his home in Akron, Ohio. That means Christmas and Arfons said he would rather wait until mid-January.

However, winter is moving in over the western Utah raceway and the Flats usually are covered by a snow blanket in January.

Breedlove and his jet car, Spirit of America Sonic I, compiled a two-way average speed of 600.601 miles per hour through the measured mile in regaining the record. The performance wiped out a 576.353 m.p.h. mark set by Arfons last week.

Underlining the end of record racing for 1968, chief timer Joe Petralli of the U.S. Automobile Club packed his gear and headed home to Upland, Calif. He said he wouldn't be back this year.

Breedlove's record Monday — he's held it four times in the past in his see-saw competition with Arfons — gave him another distinction. He is the first man to officially drive 400, 500 and 600 m.p.h.

Will he go for 700? "Of course, if I can," said the 28-year-old former hot-rodder from Palos Verde, Calif. "But probably not in this car. The limit of this car is in the high 600s."

"And don't talk about the sound barrier (740-760 m.p.h. on the Flats). That's a long way off."

Breedlove's blue jet actually was constructed for supersonic speeds with a pinched midsection to increase air penetration at high speeds. But troubles with body panels — they buckled on several earlier runs — and caved in front cowlings forced modifications that reduced the jet's potential.

Breedlove said he probably will have to go to a different configuration in designing a car capable of the sound barrier.

Emphasis On Strength And Endurance

Emphasis will be on strength, roughing prowess and endurance for the highlight event of a four-match wrestling program at Convention Hall tonight. Action gets under way at 8:15.

A six-man battle royal is the feature with a cast including the powerful 265-pound Stomper, the arrogant Viking, Thor Hagen, Victor Rivera, Bobby Shane and newcomer Jim Webba, billed as the Syrian assassin.

In a wrestle royal, staying power is at a premium and the brawlers, if they can get a few breaks, usually have the best of it. The Viking and Stomper are classed as bellers and figure as favorites in the action. Little is known about Webba, although he is regarded as a definite threat.

For the royal, each participant is to post $50 as an entry fee. The winner will collect it all. Elimination will be by means of being tossed over the top rope. The last wrestler remaining will be declared the winner.

There'll be three separate one-fall clashes before the main go. The Stomper is pitted against the Viking; youthful Shane, 22, will challenge Webba, and Hagen will go against the Talented Rivera.

The Viking and Stomper have a running feud going because of a jolting session a couple of weeks ago in St. Joseph. In that action, the Viking opened a cut on the Stomper's forehead and then spent the rest of the time trying to enlarge it. In the end, the Stomper got the nod but was bathed in blood and looked more like the loser.

QUICK KILL—Fifteen minutes after deer season opened Monday morning, Pearly Bowers, 1008 East Seventh, bagged this buck near Edmondson, Mo. with one shot from a 30-30 rifle. Bowers said the deer ran about 50 feet before toppling over. It was his first kill. The season opened at 6:30 a.m. and at 6:45 it was all over for Bowers — and the deer.

Coach Gomer Jones says Big Eight football has improved tremendously the past 10 years, but he won't go along with those who call Nebraska's current unbeaten squad the best in Big Eight history.

"Jack Mitchell (Kansas coach) says they are the best, and they do have a great team," Jones told the Kansas City Byline Club Monday.

Oklahoma won all 10 games in 1956 and scored 46.6 points a game, yet was barred from another Orange Bowl trip under the contract. Runner-up Colorado went to Miami and won. The 1949 OU team also was 10-0 and squashed Louisiana State 35-0 in the Sugar Bowl.

Jones' words carry considerable weight because he's in his 20th season as a coach in the Big Eight, one as line coach under Bernie Masterson at Nebraska, 17 as Bud Wilkinson's assistant and two as head coach.

"There have been 35 head coaches in the Big Eight in my 20 years in the league and I'm the 35th," Jones said. "I haven't had many losing years. Now I know how it feels."

"Looking ahead, I think we'll be all right at Oklahoma. We played 32 men at Missouri and only five were seniors."

Bob Devaney, Nebraska coach, disclosed his players voted to accept an Orange Bowl bid before the Kansas game Nov. 6. He said the Huskers were forced to make a decision with three games left.

"I think it'll be Alabama but they can't make it official yet," Devaney said.

Alabama is ranked no. 5 nationally, Nebraska no. 3.

Missouri, no. 8 nationally, is in the Sugar Bowl, with 10th-ranked Florida the likely opponent. But Coach Dan Devine won't talk about the bowl until after Saturday's 74th Kansas-Missouri battle.

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell said Bob Skahan will play some at quarterback Saturday despite his sore legs, but little Bill Fenton will start.

Iowa State was in good condition, preparing for a trip to New Mexico, coached by Bill Weeks, an ex-Iowa State quarterback who set most of the passing records Tim Van Galder is now in the process of smashing.

Oklahoma State coach Phil Cutchin, preparing for Kansas State at Stillwater, praised four members of his defensive unit for their play against Nebraska.

They were linebacker Verne Miller and halfbacks Harry Cheatwood, Happy Settle and Willard Nahgang.

K-State coach Doug Weaver reported no major injuries and had high praise for senior safety Larry Anderson.

Nebraska and Oklahoma have an open date Saturday before colliding in a nationally televised game Thanksgiving Day at Lincoln. Jones said he hopes his outstanding linebacker, Carl McAdams, will be ready.

FELLS GOOD BUCK—S. M. Todd, 1803 South Lamine displays the eight-point buck deer he shot at 9:45 a.m. Monday southeast of Cole Camp in Benton County. Todd said he was hunting by himself when he sighted the buck.

He missed with a first shot, but scored with the second. The deer was estimated at 200 pounds live weight, Todd said. Missouri white-tail season opened Monday morning. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Tourney Proves Team Strength

Last week's PBCAA Conference Tournament at Cole Camp proved two things — that Warsaw's Wildcats were better than their number two rating and that the Sacred Heart Gremlins were better than sixth.

The Wildcats won the championship by three points over Northwest and Sacred Heart almost took third place — until Lincoln's Cardinals decided otherwise.

The greatest show of the tournament, besides the close race provided by Northwest and Warsaw, was turned in by Lincoln's Duane Brandsgaard. The 6-6 senior, who had an average of 15 points a game last year, shattered every individual scoring record in the PBCAA for a single game by collecting 48 tallies during the game in which Lincoln won the third place trophy.

Brandsgaard's performance was just one point shy of Sacred Heart's game total that night.

After last week's tournament, teams in the PBCAA were left standing with these non-conference records: Warsaw, 5-0; Northwest, 2-1; Lincoln, 2-2; Cole Camp, 2-2; Sacred Heart, 2-2; Smithton, 1-2; La Monte, 0-4; and Green Ridge, 0-4.

This Tuesday, Smithton will meet the usually powerful California Pintos at California to help the California team open its 1965-66 season. Green Ridge will go against Northwest in an effort to better its record, Cole Camp meets Lincoln's Cardinals while Brandsgaard takes aim at his new scoring record and Warsaw and Sacred Heart will both have open dates.

In the area, at least two tournaments affecting teams in the Democrat-Capital trade are underway this week. One of them is the College High Invitational at Warrensburg, in which Calhoun, Corder, Sweet Springs and La Salle of Alma, among others, will see action. The other tournament is the Nelson Invitational, in which Pilot Grove, Otterville and New Franklin will play.

Tuesday's schedule: Smithton at California; Green Ridge at Northwest; Cole Camp at Lincoln; Booneville Catholic at Prairie Home; Jamestown at Bunton.

Van Galder Ousts G. Lane For Honors

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Iowa State quarterback Tim Van Galder, with 344 yards total offense against Kansas State, was voted Big Eight Back of the Week by a slim margin over Gary Lane, Missouri quarterback, and Walt Garrison, Oklahoma State fullback.

The performances by Lane and Garrison were among the best in their careers and good enough to win Back of the Week honors almost any other Saturday this fall.

But Van Galder's 344 was second best in Big Eight history behind the 359 by Tony Scardino of Missouri against Oklahoma in 1951. His 293 passing was third best in league history behind Scardino and the 311 by Paul Christman of Missouri against K-State in 1938.

"I may be a little prejudiced, but this is the best quarterback in the Big Eight," said Clay Stapleton, Iowa State coach. "He not only can throw, but what he can do with his running is a real bonus."

Lane had 155 yards total offense on 27 plays against Oklahoma and moved within 12 yards of 3,000 in career total offense, a mark reached by only seven players in league history. He scored three touchdowns and passed for 16 fourth.

Garrison slashed the Nebraska defense for 121 yards in 19 carries, including an 18-yarder to the Husker 5-yard line on the final play.

"Garrison is the best fullback I've ever seen in the Big Eight," said Bob Devaney, Nebraska coach.

Van Galder reached his figure with 62 plays. He hit 21 of 44 passes and carried 11 times for 51 yards. Nine Iowa State team and individual records can be attributed to his game.

The Big Eight Lineman of the Week was Francis Peay, Missouri's 246-pound tackle for his tremendous blocking as the Tigers rolled up 295 yards rushing. The players are nominated by the coaches and chosen by a panel of newsmen.

Other back candidates were George Lewark of Colorado, with two key interceptions on defense and two big catches on offense against Kansas; Halley Kampschroeder of Kansas with five catches for 70 and one T.D. in his first game as a receiver; Harry Wilson of Nebraska with 95 yards rushing and two big gladly tear up his contract and write a new one."

Van Brocklin has 1½ years to go on his current contract, which pays him an estimated $40,000 annually.

Money most certainly is no motive with Van Brocklin, however; nor were opportunities elsewhere.

"I don't know what I'm going to do for a living," the father of three teen-aged daughters said. "But it won't be in football. I want to get out of football now. I'm not doing this to angle for any other coaching job. I know my name has been mentioned for the Atlanta job, but this is it, the end, in coaching for me."

His moody personality, probably more than anything, is at the root of Monday's impetuous decision. As a player and coach, Van Brocklin had a burning desire to win. He lost hard and sometimes lapsed into moody despair which spilled over Monday into the decision to quit.

He could not rationalize his despair and — in his mind — all of the blame for the Viking failures were his.

The stunned Viking management, however, marshaled for an all-out effort to get Van Brocklin to reconsider. General Manager Jim Finks and the club's five directors hoped to arrange a meeting with him today or Wednesday. In the meantime, assistant coaches Walt Yowarsky and Marion Campbell ran the Viking practice.

"If we lose him, we'll lose the best football coach in the country," club President Max Winter said. "We'll do anything within reason to keep him. We'll plays, one a third-down pass reception, in the winning drive; Ben Hart of Oklahoma with 7 catches for 99 yards; and Larry Anderson, K-State safety with 16 tackles and an end zone interception.

The other line candidates were Iowa State end George Maurer, six catches for 72 yards, four on third down; K-State middle guard John Morgan, 10 tackles; Oklahoma State tackle Dennis Randall, 10 tackles; Colorado tackle Frank Bosch, 10 tackles, four for losses; Kansas tackle Jerry Barnett, nine tackles; Nebraska guard Wayne Meylan, 12 tackles; and Oklahoma end Gordon Brown, strong blocking and three pass catches.

Cookie Gilchrist Still In The Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't count Cookie Gilchrist out of that rushing race in the American Football League.

Although Paul Lowe of San Diego is out front with 850 yards to Cookie's 684, the Chargers have an open date Sunday while Cookie and the Denver Broncos will be at work.

As San Diego already has played 10 games and Denver has played only nine, the extra date gives Gilchrist a big chance to close the gap.

Gilchrist ran for 119 yards on 16 carries against Houston last Sunday while Lowe was held to 48 yards by Kansas City.

Despite John Hadl's troubles against the Kansas City defense, the San Diego quarterback still leads the passers in standings based on six categories.

Crewman Tells Story Of Sinking

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Third engineer Harry Sopiros of the cruise ship Yarmouth Castle hasn't slept for two nights — and he is wondering if he will in the weeks ahead.

His new assignment: crew member on the Yarmouth, sister ship of the Yarmouth Castle. "I don't know if I will ever erase the memory of those flames," he said.

Sopiros, 42, interviewed in Nassau, leaves the Bahamas today aboard the Yarmouth.

Eighty-one passengers and two crewmen are believed to have perished when the Yarmouth Castle went down Saturday off Great Stirrup Cay, about 60 miles northwest of Nassau.

Passenger Norman Lehr of Miami Beach died of burns in a Nassau hospital. His body will be flown to Miami in a private plane.

Many survivors said there was no warning as fire swept the ship, that the water sprinkler system didn't work, fire hoses lay unused on the deck and that only 4 of 14 lifeboats were lowered.

But a Coast Guard investigator said Monday the Yarmouth Castle passed a Coast Guard safety check three weeks before she sailed.

Third engineer Sopiros said the alarm went off in the forward section and he spread the alarm to the crew sleeping below deck.

"The fire never reached the engine room or the crew's quarters," he explained. "I think it started somewhere in one of the more expensive forward cabins."

He said hose pipes and lifeboats in the forward section were burned.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., called for a joint Coast Guard-Department of Commerce investigation of the sinking.

Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, said, "We think the same safety regulations applying to U.S. flagships should apply to foreign flag ships soliciting business in the United States."

The Yarmouth Castle flew the Panamanian flag.

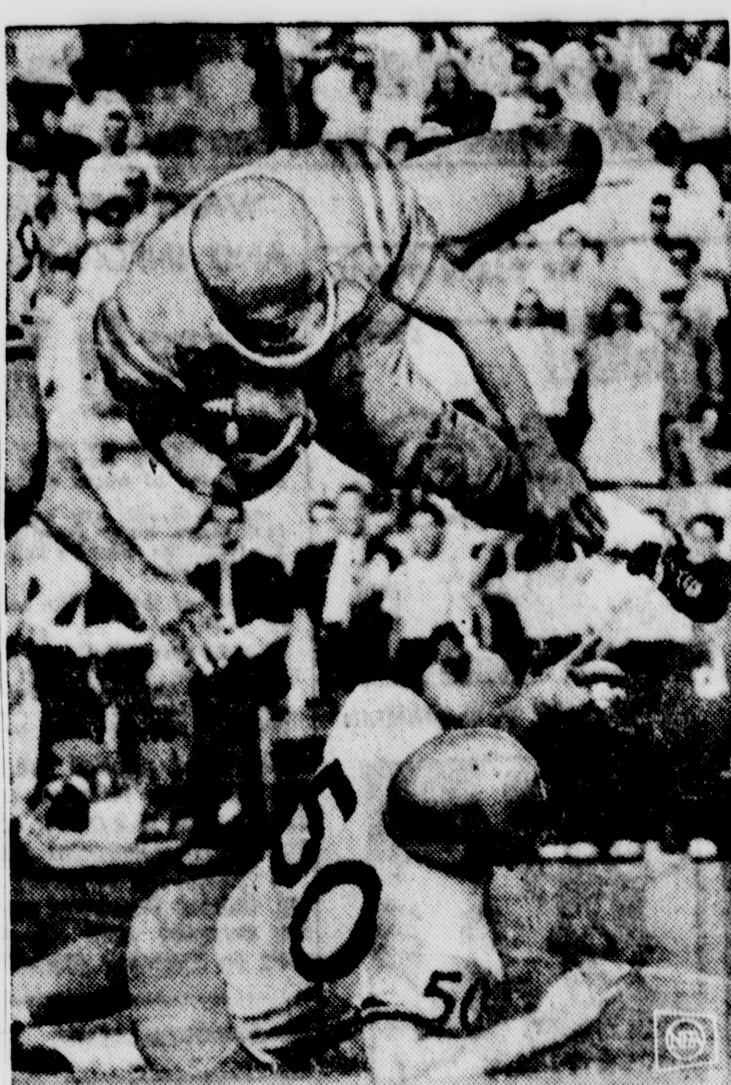

Capt. Lloyd W. Sheldon, president of the AFL-CIO International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, called for a congressional investigation.

Capt. V. G. Niebergall, head of the 7th Coast Guard District's Merchant Marine Safety Division, said the finding of a preliminary investigation disputed complaints from survivors that the Yarmouth Castle was poorly equipped to cope with the emergency.

"Three weeks before the Yarmouth Castle sailed, we held a fire drill aboard the ship in accordance with the international convention for safety of ships at sea," Niebergall said. "It was in compliance with the international regulations."

"International convention allows one half hour to get lifeboats into the water. This ship got its boats into the water in eight minutes."

Niebergall said testimony from crewmen indicated that the sprinkler system and other safety devices worked satisfactorily.

WALKING ON AIR—Bob Stiles of UCLA believes in taking the shortest route so he just bypasses this obstacle with a leap that would make a hurdler proud.

Minimize Any Power Failures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators turn their attention today toward minimizing the possibility of another massive power failure.

The emphasis of the week-long probe shifted to protection and prevention after the point of origin of last Tuesday night's blackout in the Northeast and Canada was established Monday to have been in a plant of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission at Queenston.

Chairman Ross Strike of the Ontario commission announced that the failure was caused by a relay break at the Sir Adam Beck Plant No. 2. This break threw one transmission line out of service and four others quickly tripped out because of the resultant overload.

The Beck plant is four miles north of Niagara Falls. The entire output from the plant as well as some power being obtained from the New York State Power Authority, which had all been moving north, was thrown onto the U.S. transmission facilities, overloading them. Some safety equipment tripped but all of it didn't work.

Still unresolved, however, are these questions: What caused a relay in that plant to break and what can be done to reduce to a minimum the risk of a similar episode?

Chairman Joseph C. Swidler of the Federal Power Commission, who was directed by President Johnson to lead the black-out probe, said a failure could occur again but the likelihood is not too great.

Swidler said the commission is continuing its investigations into why the trouble spread over so many power systems and will suggest measures to minimize the possibility of a recurrence.

Gropes Ahead

Government Sees Wreckage Of Commie Control Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 15 years of frustration, the government surveyed the wreckage of its Communist control law today and decided to move ahead in that field as best it can.

The Supreme Court took most of the starch out of the effort Monday. It ruled that Communist party members cannot constitutionally be forced to register with the government because of the risk of self-incrimination.

Thus in one 11-page opinion the court wiped out 43 membership cases developed after long and costly hearings by the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said the decision by the high court "is not the first which has overthrown a provision of the law enacted by the Congress as protection against subversion."

"Either our government has the power to protect itself against subversion, or it faces inevitable destruction," Eastland said in a statement he will ask his committee to meet soon after Congress reconvenes in January. He said his group will try to "plug the gaps" in the subversion laws.

"If progressive changes in constitutional interpretation by the Supreme Court have made that impossible, then it will be the duty of the Judiciary Committee to recommend an appropriate constitutional amendment," he said.

Since the opinion announced Monday by Associate Justice William J. Brennan Jr. was directed specifically at that provision of the law aimed at individual members, the Justice Department decided to continue its prosecution of the party for failure to register as a Communist front organization.

That trial is in its third week in U.S. District Court and could bring the party a $230,000 fine on conviction — which would, of course, be subject to appeal and further testing of the law. A similar appeal was successful after a 1961 conviction.

There was speculation that the recommendations would likely take several approaches: —Better control devices to cut off automatically lines or sectors of systems involved in disturbances.

—Larger, stronger and more multiple interconnections in systems.

—Provisions for more "spinning reserves" in the form of hydroelectric plants or their equivalent, which could supply generating capacity
